Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-27 are allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance:

While Anabuki (Patent No. 6,091,518) discloses a color image transfer apparatus includes a WWW server storing images, a profile server storing profiles defining color spaces of the images, and a WWW browser for receiving an image from the WWW server and a profile from the profile server in order to performs color correction. The WWW browser includes a cache to store the profiles previously received from the profile server. The cache of Anabuki does not store corrected images as claimed in the present invention. Anabuki does not disclose or suggest a cache server connected to the cache for selecting a color corrected image.

Liedtke (Newly cited Patent No. 5,913,222) teaches a color correction method in a virtual addressed and physically indexed cache memory. The allocation of a color of cache entry can be change by assigning a color information to each cache entry. However, if there is no cache hit, a color-corrected cache access is attempted by means of a color correction. Again the cache of Liedtke does not store corrected images but rather storing the color information similar to Anabuki above.

Neither of these references taken either alone or in combination discloses a method and device for distributing color corrected images to a client computer having all the claimed features of applicant's instant invention, specifically including: a cache of color corrected images, each image corrected according to one of a finite number of sets of image display characteristics; a cache server to receive an image request from the client computer and connected to the cache to select a color corrected image from the cache in response to the request. Also, there is no motivation to combine the Anabuki reference with the Liedtke reference to meet these limitations. It is for these reasons that applicant's invention defines over the prior art of record.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
